

Willie Crosby: Fungi Ally

Willie Crosby has been studying and cultivating fungi for the past three years. He recently completed a month long internship with Aloha Medicinals learning how to grow high quality spawn and medicinal mushrooms. Last year, in conjunction with Bill Cooley, he started Fungi Ally inoculating 500 logs. Since then the team has built two indoor growing rooms that supply mushrooms to the Amherst community. Willie has led mushroom cultivation workshops throughout Massachusetts. Through study and experience, Willie hopes to continue learning the diverse methods people can use to improve themselves and the world through allying with fungi!

Fungi Ally strives to bring mushrooms and of all their benefits to the forefront of the pioneer valley. By offering fresh locally grown mushrooms, he hopes that more people can take advantage of the medicinal and culinary wonders mushrooms offer.

Willie and his peers hope to collaborate with other mycophiles in the pioneer valley to develop and to implement projects allying with fungi.
